PRISON BREAK

Not many of us have had the experience of prison, but we probably all agree that we prefer our freedom. That is kind of the point. None of us longs for an incarceration.

The Bible tells us that Christ's desire is that we would live a life of freedom. Jesus wants to set us free from our sin, free from our pain and hurt, our anger and jealousy. He has a much better life in mind.

The problem is that we are often confused about what the life of freedom looks like, or how we can live that way. Instead of the life of freedom offered through belief in Christ, we opt for subtle cell, a prison filled with rules and obligations.

This week we are beginning a series on the book of Galatians. In the letter to a small group of churches, Paul outlines the beauty of a life of freedom and instructs believers on how to live in liberty. Join us for the next several weeks as we learn what it means to truly live free.

Thanks for being with us today. If you need assistance or have any questions, please visit Guest Central in the lobby. You can also visit us online at chestnutridgechurch.com
