Envy

Try as we might it can often be difficult to celebrate the success of others. As much as we want to, it is very hard for us to enjoy it when others prosper.

And you don't have to go very far in your own life to find an example: the promotion of a colleague to a position that you wanted, the new car your neighbor is washing in the driveway, your best friend's new boyfriend or girlfriend.

Envy is never far from us and yet the Bible teaches us a very different way. It teaches us a way of love, a love that is not envious, that rejoices with others, that takes great joy in the success of others. But how is this kind of attitude possible? Could we ever be people who truly enjoy it when others excel and succeed?

During this teaching series we are unpacking the power of love: a love that is patient and kind, a love that keeps no record of wrongs and a love that does not envy. We will be exploring how we can be a people of real, life-transforming love.

Thanks for spending some time with us this weekend! We are here to serve you. If you have any questions or need assistance, please feel free to stop by guestCENTRAL in the lobby.

Pastor Tim answered many of your great questions during the Ask series, but what if there's still more you want to know?

We've created an environment where you can connect with others just like you who have questions about faith, God, or the Bible. It's called Starting Point, and it's not a class. It's a conversational setting where it's okay to ask anything, whether you're just starting a relationship with God, just coming back to one, or simply have some questions.

Learn more about Starting Point by joining us for refreshments and a brief orientation directly after either Sunday service in the Conference Room.
