take care of those who are hurt? to help? to show affection? Aren't we teaching them every day to love like Jesus?

We're teaching them, yes. But are we modeling it? Children learn more by observation than we ever realize (or want to admit). Do they see us loving like Jesus as they watch us? Do they see us sharing? taking turns? caring for those around us? helping? loving? Do they see us loving like Jesus?

Take advantage of a few opportunities this month to love like Jesus with your preschooler. Deliver a meal to a sick friend. Send a card to a grandparent. Let the person with fewer groceries go in front of you in line. Whatever you do, know that you are making a lasting impression on your preschooler, and he will learn to love like Jesus, too.
